THE COLUMBUS ADVANTAGE

Located in the center of Ohio, the Columbus Region is expanding at an exciting rate and boasts some of the best business resources available. The Columbus Region is home to an extremely capable, educated workforce growing at a rate substantially above the national average.

Key Transportation:

According to Three Scale Research in June 2013, the Columbus Region is the most favorable business location with accessibility to the American market. The Columbus region offers a greater access to the United States and Canadian market than any other metro, major cities and logistic hubs. Within the 10-hour drive from the Columbus region is 47 percent of the U.S. population, 44 percent of the U.S. manufacturing capacity, 48 percent of all U.S. headquarters operations and 34 percent of the Canadian population. Along with the interstate highway system and the multiple rail terminals, Columbus's Rickenbacker International Airport is one of our nation's largest and only cargo-dedicated airports. Also in Columbus is the John Glenn Columbus International Airport which has more than 140 daily flights to more than 30 destination airports that help connect Columbus to the global world.

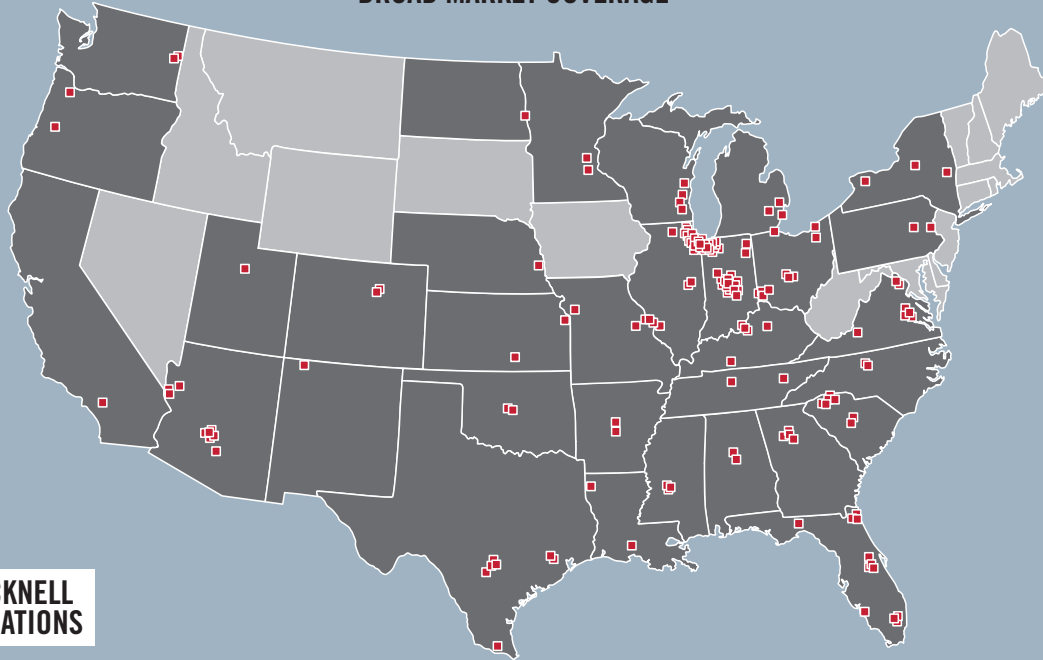

Economic Strength and Educational Talent:

The Columbus Region has a diversified economy where no single major industry sector represents more than 18 percent of employment and includes more than 450 internationally owned companies. The Columbus region has an extremely talented growing educational workplace with access to many development educational tools and more than 60 universities. In 2015, Ohio was ranked 2nd for economic development projects in Site Selection magazine.
