Spending Patterns & The Local Economy

Local Economy

Farming and energy remain central to the region's economy, with almonds, pistachios, grapes, citrus, and milk as top commodities—almonds and pistachios leading in acreage. As of July 2021, payrolls remained 10% below their October 2019 peak, a period that typically sees the highest farm employment.

The local economy has diversified, with a growing logistics sector driven by reduced drayage costs and direct rail access to major ports in Los Angeles and Oakland. The region's location—within a four-hour drive of over 40 million people—has made it a strategic logistics hub.

Demographics reflect a strong presence of young families and millennials, with baby boomers as the fastest-growing group, fueling demand for healthcare services. Cal State Bakersfield is a key economic engine, with over 11,000 students and 1,200 faculty and staff. More than 70% of its alumni remain in the San Joaquin Valley workforce. Business administration is its leading degree program.

With a median household income around $55,000 and relatively low housing costs, the area offers broadly affordable home prices and rental rates.

Data Analysis

The property at the corner of Rosedale Highway and Coffee Road serves as the gateway to a more affluent demographic landscape to the west. With consistently higher annual household spending compared to overserved regions to the east, this location is primed for premium retail experiences. Positioned strategically, retail centers to the southeast provide a unique chance for businesses along Rosedale Highway to cater to the affluent market to the west. This project not only builds on the triumph of the Northwest Promenade but also acts as a pivotal link, bridging the retail gap between the region and the bustling Shops at Riverwalk/Marketplace to the south.
